National Federation Printed Forms

(SEE PLATE ON FRONT COVER)

When contests involve schools from two or more states, they are governed by rules of the National Federation. This is to insure administration of the contests strictly in accordance with the policies of the state high school associations. Because there has been only a hazy notion of available forms for such contests, three of them are indicated on the accompanying plate. Here is a brief outline of their use.

Application for Sanction of Multiple Interstate Meet: When a high school desires to hold a meet or tournament which will involve the schools of more than one state, application for sanction of the meet should be made on the proper printed form. The school may secure these forms by writing its state high school office. This application is sent first to the executive officer of the home state. He uses a special endorsement form to notify the state high school office of each of the states from which schools are to be invited. All of these are sent by the executive officers to the National Federation office. The national office then notifies the host school of the disposition of the application. Sometimes sanction is granted for all of the states mentioned in the application. At other times, it is sanctioned for only part of the states which are mentioned and in certain cases, the host school is permitted to invite schools from a neighboring state within a radius of a stated number of miles.

To protect all schools that receive invitations, the host school includes in its application a statement that the meet will be conducted strictly in accordance with certain rules of the National Federation. Among other things the host school agrees to:

1. Admit competitors from only such high schools as are members of their own state high school association and to insure this by requiring use of the Federation Interstate Contract and eligibility blanks.
2. Require eligibility certificate for each competitor on the official state high school association blank signed by the high school principal and endorsed by the executive officer of the state in which the certificate originates.
3. Limit competition to those who meet the minimum eligibility requirements as stated in Article II, Section 2 of the National Federation constitution.
4. Limit prizes to such as are permitted by the most restrictive state high school association which competes.
5. Refrain from inviting competitors from any state or section of a state not included in the groups for which sanction is granted.
6. Permit only boys to compete in this meet.

Most state associations include in their by-laws a requirement that their member schools participate only in meets which have been properly sanctioned. If this practice is followed, many evils will be avoided.

Contract for Interstate Games or Meets: Whenever a school schedules a game with a school from another state, the contract should be made out on the National Federation printed contract form. These may be secured from any state high school office. The contract contains the usual blank spaces for the time, place and financial terms. It also includes the essential National Federation rules which apply to interstate games. Among them are:

1. Each party guarantees its membership and good standing in its own member state high school association and also guarantees that participation in this contest will not violate any rule of that association or of the National Federation. The contract is void if such membership is terminated or if participation is found to be contrary to the state of national rules.
2. Each contestant must be eligible under rules of his home state association and also under the minimum eligibility requirements listed in Article II, Section 2 of the National Federation constitution.
3. Contests covered by this contract will be administered under playing rules and safety requirements approved by the National Federation as meeting the specifications of the various athletic accident benefit associations.
4. If either party fails to fulfill its contract obligations, that party shall make amends in accordance with terms fixed by the National Federation executive committee after consultation with the executive officers of the states involved.
5. Only officials approved by the home state office shall be used. They will be proposed by the home school at least 5 days before the contest and approved by the visitors not later than the day before the contest.

When games are played between schools of more than one state, there is always the chance that there will be a misunderstanding relative to the conditions under which the games are played. The use of the printed interstate forms will prevent violations of any of the rules and will reduce the chance of misunderstanding.

Application for National Record in Track: When recognition of a record performance in track is desired, the application must be made on the proper printed form. Only performances made in sanctioned meets will be considered. The application must bear the signatures of all major officials of the meet and must show accurate measurement of the distance and proper checking of the watches. The printed forms may be secured from the state office and the application must be sanctioned by the state executive officer before being sent to the national office. — National Federation Office Contribution.

From the President's Office

By the time this issue of The Athlete goes to press, a New Year's greeting may seem to be out of season because most of us will have learned by that time to write 1941 on our checks and letters. However, our association with the school men of this state has been so pleasant and we have come to know them so well that we do wish to take advantage of this opportunity on behalf of all members of the Board of Control to say Happy New Year to all of you.

* * * * *

Recently it was suggested by one of our ablest coaches that The Athlete should have a Point of View Column, or a Contributor's Page. Our editor likes the idea and will plan to have such a page in the next issue. Let us have your contributions.

* * * * *

Within a few days the schools in each of the 64 districts will select the site for their district tournament. All other things being equal tournaments should be rotated from school to school, but this does not mean that a tournament should ever be held in a gymnasium that is inadequate in its size or facilities, or inconvenient in its location. The spectators and the players have some rights in these matters.

The rules were changed last year so that the regional sites will no longer be selected by all the member schools. These sites will be designated by schools that are to be represented in the regional tournaments.

POTTER DISCUSSES PHYSICAL ED. BILL

H. R. 10606

"A Bill to promote national preparedness and the national welfare through appropriation of funds to assist the several States and Territories in making adequate provisions for health education, physical education and recreation in schools and school camps."

It is up to "we the people" to support this measure. If the bill dies "in committee," if it is defeated in the House or the Senate, it will in large measure be the result of the lack of interest and action that you and I and every other teacher of health, physical education and recreation manifest in this matter. Our National Association and its officers are devoting time and money to support this measure. Many of our outstanding writers, leaders and thinkers are giving their support. However, this is not enough. Our National Association is but one unit; our leaders are relatively few in number compared to our total group. If this Bill is to become a functional reality every member of our profession must give his time and interest to support its passage through our Congress. The final disposition of this Bill will be the result of work accomplished by precinct workers, not political leaders. You and I are precinct workers—let's do our share.

Already there is being voiced certain opposition to H. R. 10606. This opposition is largely based on one of two premises. First, if we endorse federal subsidization for health, physical education and recreation we will surrender freedom of local autonomy and control. Second, passage of this Bill will place the school subjects with which it is concerned in a "privileged" group and will lead to discrimination against other school subjects. These assumptions are not based on fact, they are the cry of "vested interests" and the "Calamity Janes" who are still with us but living in the "twiddling 'twenties." By means of a simple comparison we can see just how weak the assumptions of the opposition are and what is more important we can visualize what splendid accomplishments will come from Congressional approval of this Bill.

In 1917 there was passed by our Congress the "Smith-Hughes Act" which, briefly stated, provided Federal funds, if and when matched by local funds, for the teaching of Vocational Agriculture in our public schools. The original act of 1917 has been supplemented by subsequent Congressional legislation from time to time, perhaps the outstanding measure being the "George-Deen Act" of 1936. As it now operates this legislation allots certain funds to the United States Commissioner of Education which in turn is allotted to the respective states on the basis of rural-farm population in proportion to total state population. What has come of all this? Has it led to "Federal Control" of local school programs? Has it led to "discrimination against" other school subjects? Not at all. The only thing it has led to is a program of educational accomplishment. Federal funds are now provided local schools, through state control for not only Vocational Agriculture but also for the teaching of Home Economics, Trade and Industrial Education and Distributive Occupations Education.

H. R. 10606 is no new or radical departure from our traditional way or constitutional way. The precedent has already been set and the achievements sufficiently noteworthy to justify our unmitigated support. What can you do to assist this cause? First: Read the article by Dr. Hiram Jones, our National Association President, and the complete text of H. R. 10606 appearing the November 1940 issue of the Journal of Health and Physical Education. Second: Following the "Hints on Writing to Congressmen" suggested by Dr. George Gloss on page 531 of the above issue of the "Journal." Write your local Congressman and members of the "Educational Committee" of the House of Representatives. Third: Contribute financial aid to support the measure. Send your contributions to the Executive Secretary, American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, 1201 16th St., N.W., Washington, D. C. If you want to love a thing, put your money in it. Fourth: Contact the head of your local American Legion Post and your State Commander; contact all Parent Teacher Associations in your community and your State President of the P.T.A. Acquaint them with the Bill and urge their active support. Fifth: Contact your local school and teacher groups; solicit and urge their support. Contact your state Health and Physical Education Association officers and urge the appointment of committees to sponsor the Bill in your state and local areas.—Prof. M. E. Potter, Physical Education Department, University of Kentucky.

POINT OF VIEW COLUMN

The president calls attention in this issue to a request for a "Point of View Column" for future issues of The Athlete. This, we think, is a splendid idea and will be made a part of future issues beginning in February, 1941. So get busy coaches and principals, tell us what you have in mind. What are your points of view about the athletic program? What can the K. H. S. A. A. do to improve athletics in Kentucky high schools? What would you have the Board of Control do or refrain from doing? What should be done to improve The Athlete and make it more useful to you in your own work? What are you doing that might be of interest to coaches and principals in other parts of the state? What unusual incidents have you observed in the playing or officiating of games? Begin now to send in your contributions to the editor for the first "Points of View" column.

If you will send along the materials from time to time we could also run a "Believe it or Not" column. No doubt there are incidents occurring in games every week that are just as unusual as any ever reported by Ripley.

In the Name of Charity

(N.F.) The present era is characterized by two tendencies. The first is the tendency to justify the promotion of any activity by relating it to the problem of national defense. The second tendency, as far as athletic contests are concerned, is to justify the promotion of more and more contests in the name of charity. Promoters are wise enough to know that it is difficult for any one to object to contests which are promoted in the name of either. In the one case, the objector is unpatriotic and in these times that is a stigma with which few care to gamble. In the other case, he is uncharitable and hard hearted. The result is that many crimes against the educational system are camouflaged by a cloak of false purity. The age old fallacy is again dusted off. The end is worthy, therefore, the means is justified.

It is generally conceded that if school athletic departments err in connection with the number of athletic contests which are scheduled, it is on the side of having too many rather than on the side of having too few. Most of those who have studied the problem of interscholastic football have come to the conclusion that seven or eight strenuous football games are a sufficient number for any high school team and yet there are innumerable cases where a school has completed a schedule of nine or ten games and is then forced by various pressure groups into the playing of post-season contests. There are cases on record where a high school team has played as many as twelve games during the football season and has then been forced to play a post-season game under management of a promoting group entirely outside the school system. In at least one such case, the high school team has then decided to top off the season by traveling across the continent to play an intersectional game during the Christmas holidays. The football season is thus stretched from the first day of September to the first day of January. If this were carried to the extreme and if it is assumed that what is good for one school is good for all, it would soon result in football being an all-year sport and there would be no limit to the length of trips which might be taken, to the time which might be devoted to practice and to the time which might be given by the athletic staff to the training of a very small minority of the students while neglecting those who need that time and attention.

To some extent, the same thing applies to basketball. It is possible that a schedule of nineteen or twenty basketball games can be justified. There are many cases on record where teams play as many as thirty-five games in a season and there are a few cases where the schedule has included as many as forty games. In some cases, the school has found it necessary to extend its season because of demands for charity games. The customary practice is for a city organization to give wide publicity to some unfortunate group which needs financial aid. Having aroused sympathy in the minds of the general public, the next step is to send the committee to demand of the school administrator that the school assist in raising funds for this worthy cause. Since the school has built a clientele that will support high school athletics, the next logical step is to add an extra game to the schedule, the proceeds to go to charity. The result is that the season is longer than it should be, the school name has been exploited, most of the credit goes to the organization which handles the funds, the school interests have been divided in such a way that the public is fed up on basketball games and the athletic budget suffers. The school has contributed to a worthy charity but, in doing it, has curtailed the service which the department could otherwise have rendered to numbers of students who need the use of the athletic facilities. Those who advocate such games for charity might just as well go to the board of education and ask for outright appropriation for a worthy cause. It would amount to the same thing in the end. The difference is that the board of education would probably justify refusal of a grant on legal grounds or on the grounds that the school itself needs every dollar that can be raised by the small percentage of taxation which is allotted to it. The athletic department has no such protection. It is subject to the whims of the populace and can not afford to gamble with the adverse propaganda which may be initiated by the group which is promoting the given charity and which will play upon the prejudices of the public by presenting only one side of the case.

In past years these things have been only minor nuisances but the situation is rapidly approaching

By request from the school officials or coach of several high schools, skeleton clinics were held (because of having to pass through the cities or because of staying over the week-end, making such possible and permissible), at Mayfield in the afternoon of December 3rd; at New Albany, December 9th; at Carrollton, December 10th; at Danville, December 13th; at Russell, December 17th. Several officials were able to attend the afternoon session who would not have been able to attend the night clinic because of an engagement to call a basketball game in that section that night.

Of the 503 in attendance at the regular meetings, exactly 300 of them were coaches and officials. Approximately 60% then were coaches and officials.

All meetings were held at 8:00 o'clock with the exceptions: Somerset, Owensboro and Ft. Thomas at 3:00 o'clock; and Morehead and Ashland at 9:00 and 9:30. These postponements were agreed upon by those attending the clinics so as to afford themselves a chance to see college games.

1. — PRECISION BASKETBALL

Precision Basketball—600 feet of sound film giving the philosophy of the rules and showing rules situations. The film was produced by the Basketball Educational Bureau, of which Mr. A. A. Schabinger is Director. The film was supervised by Mr. H. V. Porter, Secretary, and Oswald Tower, Editor of the National Basketball Committee of the United States and Canada.

This film is the first attempt to interpret the rules of basketball by sound film. There is no doubt that it is highly successful. The official can get a clear picture of the rule situation and at the same time get the editor's own interpretation with it. Many more, and the more difficult situations can be brought up in a film. Everyone seemed to enjoy the film and expressed that it was highly instructive.

The projector, screen and sound equipment was loaned to the K. H. S. A. A. by the Office Equipment Company of Louisville and Lexington.

2. — TIPS FOR OFFICIALS

1. Physical Condition
 - (A) Physical examination.
 - (B) Handball, badminton or other good exercise during day that official is not working a ball game.
2. Use of Postal Cards
 - (A) Notify coaches of open dates—also the Regional Bureau.
 - (B) Notify coach of contract at least three days before game.
3. Report to Coach at least one hour before game time.
4. Dress and be ready at least ten minutes before game time, in order to check ball, timing, scorers and etc.
5. Be Prompt.
6. Dress:
 - (A) Cleanliness.
 - (B) Colors not confusing to players. Black and white officials shirt is recommended.
7. Good Whistle (Check before game).
8. Be alert and in correct position.
9. Be explicit.
10. Check score book at end of each half.
11. Methods of Officiating:
 - (A) Set-zone.
 - (B) Shifting-zone.
 - (C) Pointers for official when one man calls game.
12. Instruct Timers and Scorers.

Discussions on these various points were held. Space will not permit full elaboration on each of these.

Emphasis was given to the point that the scorers and timers are officials of the game also, and should attend the clinics. But since they do not attend (some few exceptions) then it becomes the duties of the coaches and officials calling the ball game to help instruct them. The coach can lend his rule book to his scorers and timers so that they can study the manuals. The officials can help them by discussing points of their duties before the game begins. It is planned that next year, ample time be given to the instruction of scorers and timers.

3. — RULE CHANGES 1940-41

Rule 2-1 and 2: Small backboards as diagrammed on page 47 are legal.

Rule 4-1: Balls should be inflated to such a pressure as to bounce legally. (Official should test the bounce.)

Rule 5-3: A substitute may originate at the bench after a successful free throw.

Rule 5-6: It is recommended that players be numbered from three (3) upward and that the home team wear light colored suits.

Rule 7-2: When the ball in play touches a player who is out of bounds it is awarded to his opponent.

Rule 7-7: After the ball is placed at the disposal of a free thrower, the throw cannot be waived (13-1), a substitution cannot originate at the bench (5-3), and the opponent cannot request time out (11-1)(d).

Rule 8-1 and 9-3: In high school games an official's time-out in the middle of the second and fourth quarters is mandatory under certain conditions. Also one full three-minute extra period is always played.

Rule 10-1: Note to Officials—When the ball is handed to a player out of bounds the official must have the ball clearly in his possession.

Rule 13-1 and 2: These sections have been rewritten to include certain provisions which heretofore were scattered. A slight change makes it necessary for a disqualified player to leave immediately. If he has been awarded a free throw, his substitute must attempt it.

Rule 14-2: This section now includes last year's provisions of both sections 2 and 7. The only change is for a free-thrower stepping over the line on a throw for a technical foul. In this case the ball is put in play from out of bounds at mid-court.

Rule 15-12 Penalty (a): This has been slightly reworded for clarity.

It is best to always refer to the rule as written in the book, rather than take the back of the front page, for these are printed for your convenience as an index not wholly as complete authority.

4. — MAIL BAG OF QUERIES

This part of the program was "sandwiched" in with the last part. There was no special time set for this, only as the discussion pertained to a special ruling, was this given. For instance, when a situation was being discussed, if there happened to be an inquiry on the same subject, then it was read as an inquiry or protest.

During the year 1939-40, many letters were received by the K. H. S. A. A. and the author of the letters requested interpretations on various parts of the rules. These were answered. After the season was over, these letters made an interesting collection, in that they served as a guide in determining some questions that were perplexing to the coaches, officials, players and fans over the state.

5.—RULE SITUATIONS and DISCUSSIONS

A questionnaire of some fifty questions was printed to use as a guide in the discussion. These questions were prepared with the thought that they would help the officials in taking the test that is to be given January ninth. The questionnaire was constructed along the lines of the 1939-40 National Federation Examination blank, so as to help the official familiarize himself with that type of question and the method of answering them—that is, the mechanics involved. The questionnaire was divided into ten parts: Free throws; Where and how the ball is put in play; Time-out and playing time; Equipment and officials' duties; Traveling and the dribble; Division line and restraining circle; Three second lane rule; Out-of-bounds; Interpretation bulletins; and "The Test."

During the discussions many complicated questions were asked and some could not be answered at the time, these were taken down and sent to the Editor and Secretary of the National Basketball Committee for official interpretations. The following are some points to keep in mind during the year:

INTERPRETATIONS

A1 is awarded two free throws. The captain informs the official that the last throw will be waived. The thrower then misses the first throw and the captain decides that they will attempt the last one. Is this permissible?

Ruling: No. The decision is not revokable. Because this sort of situation often causes difficulty, the officials in most states have been urged to discourage the captain from making up his mind until after the first free throw has been attempted. The official has the authority to tell the captain not to make his choice until after the first throw. It is good practice for him to follow this procedure.

* * * *

A1 throws successful free throw, which follows a single throw for personal foul. May a substitute request to be sent in at this time.

Ruling: Yes.

* * * *

The first extra period ends with the score tie 20-20. During the second extra period, each team scores one point and this period ends with the score 21-21. During the early part of the third extra period A1 is awarded one free throw and it is successful. Is the game ended immediately?

Ruling: Yes.

* * * *

Is the official justified in granting a request for lining up players for identification when there are fewer than three substitutes from one team entering the game?

Ruling: The official should not grant such a request. There are many who believe that the practice of lining up players should be entirely discontinued. The National Committee did not care to go as far as this in their action, but it was the sentiment of the committee that ultimately the practice of lining up players should be entirely discontinued.

* * * *

The fourth quarter ends 20-20. The score is still 20-20 at the end of the first extra period. In the second extra period, A1 scores one point on a free throw. After this, B1 scores a field goal but as he comes down he charges into A2. Does the game end as soon as the field goal is scored or is A2 allowed to attempt his free throw?

Ruling: A2 should be allowed to attempt the free throw and, if it is successful, the game is tied at 22-22 and play continues.

"Official's intermission" should be used instead of "Official's time out." Refer to Bulletin No. 1, page 3.

* * * *

B is confused and throws free throw in A's basket. (b) Mistake is not reported until after play has been resumed. Point should count for B.

Ruling: Play No. 174, Point counts for thrower.

* * * *

After a free throw the ball shall be thrown in from out of bounds . . . as after a field goal . . . if throw is successful.

* * * *

A player is granted a time-out (no injury) but his team completes a substitution within 30 seconds. Is the time out charged?

Ruling: No, provided play is resumed immediately and if this is not in the interval following a field goal and before a throw-in. See Plays 192-193.

Player A is throwing ball in from out-of-bounds and Player B knocks the ball back so quickly that A can not get out of the way.

Ruling: Player A was legally out of bounds. Therefore award the ball to A to put ball in play again.

* * * *

Most of the schools do not take the home score book to their dressing room at the half. In the 1939-40 Bulletin, which discusses rule 6-2 and 3, advises "against the practice of taking the score book to one of the team dressing rooms during the period between halves."

A RECOMMENDATION

Many of the coaches, principals and officials discussed the question of "How long should the seasons of football and basketball be?" From the discussions and recommendations, it was generally agreed that some restrictions as to the playing seasons be made by the board. One suggestion being that the 1941 football season be limited from the beginning of school, which will begin about September 8th, until November 22nd. The Basketball season be limited from November 15th until K. H. S. State series (district tournament).

C. — GENERAL SUMMARY

The clinics are becoming a necessary part of the official's equipment in his preparation for the basketball season. Not necessarily, because it is a regulation set by the K. H. S. A. A., but it is here that he can discuss his viewpoints along with the other officials and coaches; it is here that he learns the interpretation of the rules as they are to apply over the entire state; it is here that he can review the rules so as to improve his knowledge of them; it is here that he can arrange part of his schedule and adjust it with the Regional Bureau; it is here that he can express his views on the research of basketball; it is here that he can learn the administrator's and the coaches viewpoints pertaining to principles of basketball in the High School.

From conversations with many of the officials and coaches throughout the state, we are appreciative of the work that the K. H. S. A. A. is doing for the improvement of athletics and the officiating connected therein. We are beginning to realize that the K. H. S. A. A. requirements are not so placed solely to raise the standards of Kentucky officials, but in some degree—a protection for the official, coach, player, and to the spectators and public who support our athletic program. We are appreciative of the benefits derived. We realize that the policies of the K. H. S. A. A. are not to DICTATE but to ELEVATE.

Many thanks to the local managers who did a splendid job in selecting the places, getting local publicity, arranging conditions due to conflicts. Without their services our job would be much more difficult.

Especially should the following be thanked: The Basketball Educational Bureau and Mr. A. A. Schabinger for the use of the film, "Precision Basketball"; The Office Equipment Company and Mr. Bob Maybair for the use of the projector, screen and sound equipment; Mr. Hunt, Mr. A. A. Schabinger, Mr. Frank Hersheide, for the little courtesies extended to make the clinics a success.

If in our clinics, we can help the coach in his instructions to the players; the players to become more skillful by having a better knowledge of the rules and fundamentals; the officials in their duties of administering the rules; and the school administrators and spectators to gain a greater appreciation of the sport of basketball as it correlates with the teaching of citizenship for democracy, then our aim has not gone astray.

Home Laundry for Athletic Equipment

By PINEY PAGE
Athletic Director Transylvania College

During the spring football practice of 1939, the Athletic Department began investigating the possibilities of a home laundry process as a means of economy. A more complete and satisfactory system of cheap laundry was essential. Several machines were considered and some of them tried. A "Bendix Home Laundry" machine was chosen as the type suited to the Athletic Department's need.

The machine had a dry laundry capacity of nine pounds, and about forty-six minutes were used in running a batch of material through a complete laundry process. A maximum of twenty-eight gallons of water was used in each complete process. Materials can be run through either a hot or luke warm water wash. The machine has a soak period of about fifteen minutes and a wash, rinse, and dry period of about thirty minutes. The motor is one-fourth horse power and it uses about 200 watts per hour.

The machine has been operated by managers. Due to its being automatic there is little work necessary. Repair to the machine has been at a minimum. Operators other than managers have been found less satisfactory as they have less feeling of responsibility for the equipment.

Much work and experimenting has been done on drying racks. The most satisfactory methods of hanging found will be discussed. Usually space is at a premium so the old fashioned clothes line is out.

For hanging towels and socks racks have been built. They can be fashioned as tables or suspended from the ceiling. The racks should be about five or six feet long and two feet wide. If racks are made any longer the middle will sag. The side pieces are made of 1" x 2" planed material. The ends are made of 2" x 4". Across the rack No. 9 wire is placed about two inches apart. The wire is cut into lengths of two feet and pushed through holes bored for the purpose. The holes can be bored small enough for the wire to be tight. Laundered towels were dropped over the individual wires. Towels thus dried were ready for use without ironing. It was found that socks and supporters could also be hung on these frames more satisfactorily than anywhere else.

Above the series of frames a pipe was suspended lengthwise. Jerseys, sweatshirts, pants and etc. were hung on coat hangers and suspended from the pipe to dry. This arrangement took up a minimum of space.

Many soaps gave satisfactory results, but the same satisfactory soaps were eliminated because of the price. Powdered soaps were found more satisfactory. Quantity buys such as by the bag or barrel was cheapest. The average price paid was about 7 cents per pound.

In keeping towels and other white materials spotless, it was necessary to use a bleacher. About once a week Clorox was used to keep such materials bleached.

The figures and time represented by the table represent less than half of the record which is for about a year simply substantiates the findings of the first year.

The table records 934 individual washings. The materials washed fall into three classes: miscellaneous family laundry, football equipment, and basketball equipment. All materials were weighed before washing and their total weight was 6,773 2 lbs. or 7.25 lbs. per wash. 232 pounds of soap was used in this laundrying process which cost about 7c a lb. or $16.25.

Since the price of electricity and water varies from one community to another there is little reason to figure the cost of these, other than in a general way. It is enough to say that water and electricity and bleaching agents ran less than $15.00. Disregarding the cost of labor and cost of machine the total cost of operation was less than $35.00. The materials laundered, if sent out, would have cost $591.15. This was a saving of $556.15. Allowing for the cost of the machine there was still a saving a just under $300.00.

There is no doubt that tremendous saving can be effected through the use of a home laundry. The saving would have been some greater had the machine been loaded to capacity on each run. The load average was 20% below capacity. This load average could have been increased to capacity with no additional cost of operation.

Best of all one can keep the squad cleanly equipped. Where the equipment is sent out, there is often the tendency to save money by wearing equipment longer. This tendency is eliminated with the Home Laundry. The ends of health and sound teaching conditions are thus served. One also saves equipment by all material being kept clean. There is no longer any excuse for a dressing room or stock room being cluttered up with unclean equipment.

Plant fabric materials lend themselves more readily to this type of laundry. Cheap materials and inferior material cannot be satisfactorily handled by the Home Laundry. Better materials and better dyes are essential to satisfactory work. Samples of materials should be tried before buying.

In laundrying of practice pants a shrinkage was found. The significance and implications of this have not been fully determined but it is felt that buying a size larger than needed may be the answer. It is also possible that purchasing pants with a bit longer legs may be helpful and possibly the answer to this situation.

Woolen materials cannot be used as successfully as cotton. Animal fabric such as wool must be run through a luke warm wash which is less desirable than the hot wash. As a result of this only cotton socks are now used. Cotton materials can be bleached once a week which keeps the appearance good whereas woollens cannot be bleached.

Game equipment in both basketball and football can be laundered successfully. Again it must be said that cheap materials or cheap dyes cannot be satisfactorily laundered.

The second year of using the same laundry machine is well on its way to an end. Estimates indicate that the second year totals will be about double of the first year's record as shown in the table. The savings in this phase of the program have resulted from more and better equipment to work with.

It is not an easy task to operate a system of home laundry. It requires constant supervision by someone interested in its success. Centralize the supervision as well as the operation of the machine. The saving involved and the better morale which will result makes it well worth while and effort.

ATTENTION, KENTUCKY COACHES

During the month of January the coaches in each district will be meeting for the purpose of selecting officials for their district tournaments. We would like for the coaches to elect a coach as your district delegate for the coaches meeting in Lexington on Saturday morning of the State Tournament.

If the coaches in your districts have any proposals or rule changes to present we will appreciate it if you will send them in to A. L. Lassiter, Richmond, Ky., before the first of February, so that he may have them mimeographed and sent out to the schools to study before the coaches meeting in Lexington.

On the first of February we will send to the managers of the district tournaments 1941-42 Coaches Membership Cards. The dues are 50 cents a year. Coaches and assistants are eligible for membership. Last year most of the district managers gave the basketball coaches their membership cards and took the dues out of the tournament receipts. We suggest that the managers do the same this year. We want all Kentucky coaches to become members. The 1941-42 coaches card is a pass to any regular scheduled Football or Basketball game during the 1941-42 school year.

Last fall the K. H. S. A. A. asked the various Kentucky Conferences to select representatives to pick the best Senior players on the football teams in the state to play in the All-Star Game at Lexington. The office of the coaches association would like to suggest that the conferences select their representatives this spring during their annual meeting. By doing so the man selected will have time to work out a uniformed chart for selecting the All-Star Players, thus they will be able to do a better job. We also suggest dividing the East and West into four divisions each, as near equal in number of football schools as possible, one each to be selected from each division. The coach receiving the highest number of votes in the East and the West to be the head coaches. We suggest no coach to be selected for two consecutive years.

Kentucky High School Coaches are interested in developing great high school athletes. They are interested in their athletes attending college after completing their high school course, but they should not overlook one important factor, that is, are the athletes qualified to do college work? We should impress on our athletes that they are not going to college for the sole purpose of becoming a great football or basketball player. We should do everything in our power to convince our athletes of the importance of being well grounded in the fundamentals of high school subject matter, so that they will be prepared to do the work of what ever course of study they wish to take while attending college. Too many of our athletes find their college course too difficult for them because they fail to make the most of their opportunities while in high school. We are partly to blame for a great number of these failures because we intercede in their behalf when they are not doing the work they should in their high school classes. Boys are smart, they will and have taken advantage of their athletic ability to help them in their class work.

When our athletes go to college it is our duty to aid them all we can in making out their schedule in the course of study they wish to complete in college. There is no good reason an athlete should not be able to take Engineering, Pre-Law, Pre-Medical, Business Administration, or Teacher Courses and play football or basketball. If we leave it to the college coach or the boy to select the subjects, we may ruin a fine young man. The college coach is interested in the boy's athletic ability first and his course of study last. We have too many young men after completing their athletic activities in college about the only thing they are qualified to do is to play football or basketball.

On the 1940 All-American Football Team there were nine seniors and two juniors—four seniors 21 years old, four seniors 22 years old, and one senior over 22 years of age. The two juniors, 20 years old.

The chart below shows the age and the year in college of six varsity and freshman squads out of the nine schools that play football in Kentucky.

What has become of the 20 year old high school star athlete? One of two things must have happened, or maybe both. They have either burned out or have not the high school foundation to make the grade, because they were permitted to pass through high school on their athletic ability.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT SESSION

F. S. Elliott, Presiding

Dinner was served at the Community Room of the Whitehaven High School with the compliments of Principal Elliott and the Whitehaven School. An excellent dinner and fine entertainment were furnished by the home economics and music departments of the school.

Following the dinner there was a short tour of inspection of the vocational shops and particularly of the work which is being done in connection with the defense program. The Whitehaven vocational department works under supervision of the county school organization and builds much of the school equipment which is used in that county. The school administrators from the various states are greatly indebted to the Whitehaven schoolmen for a very profitable and pleasant tour.

The program which followed included the following:

1. The Attitude of the Southern Association of Secondary Schools Toward Athletic Activities and the Work of the State High School Association—S. F. Burke, Georgia.
2. Report on the Program of State Association Sponsored Insurance Activities—P. F. Neverman, Wis.
3. Development of Statewide Programs for Training in Playing Rules and Game Administration—H. V. Porter, Chicago.
4. Trends in Eligibility Rules—R. H. Moore, Arkansas.
5. Experiences with Statewide Programs for Regulating Contests in Music, Literary and Other Non-Athletic Activities—S. B. Sullivan, Illinois.

Each of these talks was followed by a brief discussion and questions were raised for further discussion at the following morning meeting.

the stage where the welfare of school athletic departments is being seriously affected. Those states which have adopted a hard and fast rule to limit the number of games which may be scheduled during a season have taken one progressive step in curing this evil. It will be a happy day for the educational system when the various state associations are strong enough and have enough public backing to insist that the entire activity schedule of the high school shall be planned and executed by the men and women who are hired by the board of education for that purpose. Machine politics, booster clubs and other promoting organizations should have no part in the dictating of school athletic policies.

Charity begins at home. If there is any school athletic department that can not put all available time, attention and funds to good use in ministering to its own students, they have not yet reported. If funds for charity are needed, they ought to be raised by digging into the pockets of those who can afford to give—not by exploitation of an already harassed department of the school.

Power of the Printed Word

The policies and practices of the high schools and their state high school association are often judged by what is written about them. These policies and practices are often misunderstood by the general public and even by high school students because they base their opinions on newspaper accounts or verbal reports by those who are not thoroughly familiar with the underlying theories. It behooves the high school administrators to take an active part in helping to shape these opinions because the ability of the high school groups to maintain a proper relationship between the athletic activities and the remainder of the educational program depends to a considerable extent upon the support which is given by the patrons of the school. When the state high school association adopts a rule which restricts the eligibility of an athlete, there is always a good reason behind the rule. This reason will appeal to reasonable people, provided it is properly presented. Many of the articles in the state high school association bulletins are worth being passed along by way of the school bulletin board, the local high school publication and the community newspaper. Most editors will welcome the chance to publish material of this kind, provided it is brought to their attention and provided it is modified to fit the particular use which is to be made of it. The athletic department of any high school can profitably devote considerable effort to matters of this kind. It is the only way in which they may counteract wrong impressions which come from reading comments designed to turn the public and the students against any form of direction or limitation of the athletic activities. It is natural for the newspapers, commercial clubs and other organizations to promote. It is their business to make an event attract wide attention. They can not be blamed for attempting to make athletic events constantly bigger and more sensational. Such organizations are interested in building a story which will appeal to great numbers of people. In contrast to this, the educational forces are attempting to view the school system as a whole and to use their efforts to the end that a proper share of time and attention will be devoted to each department of the school. From this viewpoint, the aims are diametrically opposed. If the public is to continue to support the school activities, they must be kept acquainted with the motives.

School administrators will further the cause by passing along some of the materials relative to the activities of the state high school association. Almost every issue of the bulletin contains something that should be read by everyone in the school district. It is obvious that they will never have a chance to see this side of the pic- ture, unless each member school sets up the machinery for disseminating the information. In some school systems, the Principal can be responsible for this. In others it may be the athletic director, or the teacher in the class in journalism or the athletic business manager. The important thing is that the matter be called to the attention of some responsible person who is interested in the work which is being done by the educational forces in properly directing the interschool activities.
